

How can I provide meaningful support from a distance?

When family members live far away from the person with care needs, it may be challenging to determine how to provide meaningful care and support even when you live far away from the person with care needs.

Calling, writing, or video visiting regularly